ANNOUNCING A SPECIAL SCREENING of Clearing the Way: Combat Engineers in Kandahar (Joint Media Group, Canada, 2018)

This is a special opportunity for members to hear first hand about living, and dying, during their difficult mission in Afghanistan. There are no Hollywood actors here, rather, genuine Canadian soldiers telling their story with the aid of videos and photos. Some of the language is colourful and it's not necessarily a movie for the faint of heart.

Original footage and first hand interviews present the vivid story of 23rd Field Engineer Squadron in Kandahar Province in the fighting of 2006-07. Join us to view a powerful account of the days of Op Medusa, FOBs and IEDs, with material that few Canadians have yet seen.

The author of the book behind the film, Colonel Mark Gasparotto, will be present for the screening. 🍁
