

Eventually everyone Moves On, I know it is hard to believe I am leaving quietly with no DWD; I am thoroughly grateful to the military and support/guidance from fellow soldiers and civilians I received throughout my career. It is time to pass in the ID card 12 Apr and move on with the next chapter in life.

Spent the first 6 1/2 years in the Armour Corps and as a highlight while stationed in Germany 1987-91 trained for 6 months about 70 hours a week for an International Armoured Recce Competition called Boeselager comprised of 16 countries.

In 1993 became an electrician and went to North Bay and learned many things from a number of fantastic people who I am still in contact with today. Went on two tours to Israel in the Golan Heights and Kosovo as an electrician. Went to Petawawa 1999-2002 with 2CER. Then spent 5 years at the Engineer School in Gagetown 2002-07, got to experience a number of different jobs as a Sgt/WO and then got promoted to MWO I believe so they could finally get me posted out?

In 2007 CFR'd to Captain and served as OC of 144 AEF Pictou NS. In 2009 went to Ottawa "StarTop" for 5 years at Canada Command/CJOC. The last 2 years worked on the Carling Campus Project, I certainly enjoyed coming to work the last 2 years, what an excellent way to end my career.

I will be laying on the beach in Jamaica on my last day in the Military and then will be marshalling at a local golf course. I am extremely thankful to the military and civilians who were real leaders that took the time to sort me out throughout my career; my poor wife (Raylene) is still trying to sort me out.

I wore my medals for the last time in November paying a final salute to my Dad who lost his battle to cancer; he was proud when I joined the military. My mom was the one who encourage me to join the military which I think it was because she wanted me out of the house since she couldn't afford to feed me. As I leave, I give a final salute to Greg Gilliam, we went through Basic and QL-3 Armoured Training together, he was killed in Afghanistan 6 Oct 2006---Lest we never Forget.
